

COMMENT OF THE DAY

Unenviable Task

MR Eden's role at the Geneva conference has been described as that of a conciliator—a task that is as difficult as it has become necessary. The amount of common ground which the delegates on both sides have reached concerning Indo-China is so far pitifully small. About the only point on which there has been anything approximating agreement (and that merely in principle) is that there should be a general ceasefire. Possibly one of the reasons why more tangible progress has not been made is that the Communist, the French and the Associated States delegates have all concentrated on package proposals, endeavouring, at one fell swoop, to resolve the whole of the Indo-China problem—military and political. Allied with the idea of a simple ceasefire have been proposals for partition, independence, coalition governments, independent regional administrations, affiliation with the French Union, and recognition of the so-called democratic republics of Cambodia and Laos, so that today it is almost impossible for the ordinary person to understand the complicated proposals and counter-proposals. Mr Eden brought to the conference some very welcome cold reason with his five questions. They were stripped of all rhetoric and dealt with fundamentals. And because of this, they are probably unwelcome to the Communist delegates who are much happier clouding issues than getting down to dealing with basic matters in a businesslike way. What the world now wants to see is whether the Reds are prepared to give Mr Eden's powers serious consideration; whether they are willing to give objective replies to them; whether, in fact, they have any intention of indulging in genuine negotiations over Indo-China. The ball has been passed back to them: will they make use of it or deliberately kick it out of play?

It has also been left to Mr Eden to put forward the first really cogent principles for reaching a Korean settlement. If disinterestedness were the guiding influence at Geneva the whole of the delegates would find it imperative to accept Mr Eden's principles. Manifestly they provide the only framework within which a durable settlement can be reached. In telescoped form Mr Eden's conditions are the holding of completely free and secret elections in both South and North Korea for the formation of an all-Korean Government; the elections to be internationally supervised and provision to be made for the eventual withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea. Nothing, on the face of things, could be more simple than that, and any serious or justified objections to the plan are unthinkable. That the Communists will object is inevitable, but not because they really consider the proposals as unfair, but because they fear them to be put into effect. This has been the predominant influence in the Russian rejection of the various Big Three proposals for settling the German and Austrian problems. They dare not contemplate the elimination of Communist power through free and secret popular elections. And it is precisely this prospect which they face if such elections take place in Korea, Indo-China or Germany. None will envy Mr Eden his unique position and heavy task at Geneva, and none will point an accusing finger at him if his efforts fail to strike an encouraging response from the Communist delegates.

Laniel Scrapes Through

Wins Confidence Vote By Two

Paris, May 14.
M. Joseph Laniel, French Prime Minister, gained a vote of confidence on his handling of the Indo-China crisis by only two votes in the French Assembly last night.

His ten-month-old Government survived by 289 votes to 287 in one of the closest votes in French Parliamentary history. Its fate was in the balance for more than 30 minutes as counting of the National Assembly ballot dragged on, with many Deputies exercising the privilege of changing their minds after their original vote.

So close was the decision that rumours of the Government's defeat on this crucial issue of the conduct of the anti-Communist war in Indo-China buzzed feverishly around the Parliamentary lobby.

The Government made out an earlier storm on the eve of the fall of Dien Bien Phu last week, throwing down a no confidence vote on the same issue by a margin of 51.

M. Laniel has maintained that defeat for the Government while the Geneva conference continues would be a major setback for French policy in international affairs.

He insisted that any debate on the Government's handling of the Indo-China war be postponed until the Geneva conference has either produced a positive result or failed.

POLOGIES AT STAKE
Speeches before the vote showed that whole of the harassed Government's political and military policies were at stake.

The Gaullist Parliamentary group met immediately after the result of the vote was announced.

Earlier, the five Gaullist Ministers had threatened to resign if a majority of the Gaullists voted against M. Laniel. A large majority of Gaullists—49—voted against the Government, only 27 supported it.

The group was now expected to bring pressure to bear on its Ministers to withdraw from the Cabinet.

One of these Ministers, M. Marc Jacquet, Secretary of State for Indo-China, is vitally concerned with French policy in the Far Eastern territory. Other Ministers hold the posts, reconstruction, budget and Minister of State portfolios.—Reuter.

Fire Threatens Entire City

Wellington, May 13.
Palmerston North, a city 100 miles north of Wellington, was threatened with a major disaster this afternoon, when giant jets of flame burst from ruptures in the city's main gasometer.

Firemen fought the flames for three hours, faced constantly with the danger of a giant explosion if the plates of the gasometer buckled. The outbreak began when a spark from an electric drill, being used on repairs to the side plates, ignited the gas.—Reuter.

Swing To The Left In British Municipal Elections

London, May 13.
Britain swung to the Left in elections today for nearly 400 English and Welsh city governments, pointing to a marked decline in popularity of Sir Winston Churchill's national administration.

With 305 results declared out of a total of 395, the Socialists had a net gain of 243 individual seats, the Conservatives lost 11 Councils formerly ruled by Conservatives or other anti-Socialists but lost their majorities in three others. Today's polling in the target municipalities was the climax of Britain's annual municipal elections for local Councils of all kinds throughout the country. The outcome will provide the political parties with a clue to

Rebel Offensive Predicted

Hanoi, May 13.

Several thousand Vietminh regular troops fought a bitter battle with French Union battalions one mile south of Phuly, in the western delta, early this morning, the French High Command announced today.

Vietminh casualties were stated to be heavy and French casualties serious.

The Vietminh attack was their biggest onslaught in the delta this year.

Officers here consider it might be the beginning of a new Communist offensive in the delta, as many thousands of regular Vietminh troops are stationed in hills around Phuly, a provincial town only 36 miles from Hanoi.

They struck the French unit on the outskirts of Phuly from two sides simultaneously. Meanwhile, another Vietminh battalion thrust 500 infantrymen between the French and their headquarters in Phuly.

Vietminh commanders early in the morning launched several battalions in a "nutcracker assault" against a single French Union battalion, the High Command said.

After furious fighting, French reinforcements blasted a way through to the trapped battalion, the French spokesman said.

They were just in time to rescue a group of prisoners being marched away, including the Major commanding the battalion whose hands were tied behind his back with string.

After two and a half hours' fighting, the tide of battle turned and the Vietminh troops fled into the hills beyond the water-logged delta, leaving 70 of their men dead on the battlefield.

Bombers and fighters pursued them back to their mountain bases, which were bombed and strafed throughout the forenoon.—Reuter.

AMBUSH SET

Hanoi, May 13.
Strong Vietminh elements set a second ambush on the Hanoi-Phuly road, 20 miles south-east of Hanoi yesterday, and violent fighting took place, it was disclosed here today.

Sherman tanks equipped with 90-mm guns, which came to the rescue, saved the Franco-Vietnamese forces after two hours' fighting.

A French command spokesman said that the Vietminh suffered very heavy losses, but Franco-Vietnamese losses were also substantial.

For the past two weeks, the French high command has stepped up its local mopping up operations, but with means which have been insufficient to stop the general Vietminh thrust against the western part of the delta, and against the Hanoi-Hoiphong railway and highway.

Observers here suggested that this generalised Vietminh action might be a possible offensive with Hanoi as the main target.

Safe Arrival In Finland

About 50 British and Finnish officials greeted the Australian Embassy staff, ordered out of Russia, when they arrived at Helsinki. Eden Working Hard But Worried About Geneva Conference

(OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

Geneva, May 13.

Mr Tom O'Brien, last year's President of the Trades Union Council, made a dramatic appeal for British and Empire unity on Far East policy here tonight.

After lunching with Mr Eden at the Foreign Secretary's villa, Mr O'Brien said: "If this conference fails, the failure cannot be laid at the door of the British Foreign Secretary."

"Everyone here, diplomats—if they spoke the truth—and certainly the journalists who know it, would agree that without his presence the conference would have been washed up already."

"I want to let the British people, Socialists and Conservatives alike, know that Mr Eden is genuinely worried about the conference. He is working hard to make a go of it."

"The Korea and Indo-China discussions mean two international conferences are going on at the same time."

"I would appeal to the British people, and the people of the Commonwealth, to give Mr Eden 100 per cent backing in the delicate negotiations he is conducting with all sides in the cause of world peace."

Mr O'Brien is Socialist MP for West Nottingham.

WONT BUDGE

Geneva, May 14.
Mr Georges Bidault, French Foreign Minister, will tell the Communists at today's resumed Indo-China peace talks that France will not budge from its refusal to negotiate over Laos and Cambodia, French sources said here last night.

They said he will make this clear in his reply to the Vietminh peace plan for Indo-China.

Western tactics for today's fourth session of the nine-nation Indo-China talks were agreed last night at a 45-minute meeting of the "Big Three" Ministers—Mr Anthony Eden of Britain, Mr Bidault of France and General Walter Bedell Smith of the United States.

The French sources said: Mr Eden would probably see Mr Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet Foreign Minister, with whom he shares the chairmanship of the Indo-China talks, before today's session to discuss the work of the conference.

Court-Martial Of Soldier Who Went AWOL Into Red China

Speaking in his defence, Craftsman M. A. Tobin, REME, said at the Court Martial at Headquarters, 27 Infantry Brigade, Fanning, today, where he is being tried for desertion, that he had been upset by news of his mother's death, and while hiking in the country he thought of his mother and had a feeling of wanting to lose himself.

He kept walking toward a mountain across the border, and when he arrived there he was surrounded by farmers and peasants who took him to a military post.

The Court comprises Major J. D. H. Boyd, RA (President); Captain W. R. Hughes, King's Regiment; and Lt K. J. David, MC, Welch Regiment.

The Prosecuting Officer is Captain H. Scott of the Royal Signals, while the Defence is being conducted by Lt T. R. Willis, RA.

The charge against Tobin was that he had been absent from duty from August 10 last year until April 17 this year.

Lance-Corporal Hoskins, of the Wiltshire Regiment, testifying for the Prosecution, said that he called the roll at 6 a.m. on August 10 and had found the defendant was absent. Witness added that the defendant's bed had not been slept in.

Another witness for the Prosecution, Sgt. W. Williams of the Royal Military Police, told the Court that on April 17 at 2.30 p.m. he went to a Police post and accompanied by a Police officer he went to the Lowu Railway Station.

About 200 yards from the bridge, continued witness, he saw the defendant standing between three Chinese Communist soldiers.

The defendant, said witness, recognised him and talked to him, after which he was allowed to cross the border—and was immediately taken into custody.

MADE NO PROTEST

Cross-examined, Sgt Williams said that when the defendant appeared with the three Chinese soldiers, he did not make any protest when he was sent across the border, and at no time did he express any wish of refusing to come across the border.

Witness added that Tobin seemed quite pleased at returning.

After the Prosecution had completed its case the Defence submitted that there was no case to answer because the Prosecution had failed to prove that there was intent on behalf of the defendant of not returning to the Service, and that the defendant was absent to avoid an important service.

THE QUEEN —IS HOME

London, May 14.

Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are back home at the end of their six-month Commonwealth tour.

The Royal yacht Britannia dropped anchor just before midnight last night in the Bay of St Austell, on a secluded stretch of the coast of Cornwall, southwest England, as her escort of four warships circled round her.

Coast guards and people watching from the cliffs sighted the twinkling lights of the yacht just before 11 p.m. and immediately scores of small boats set out to welcome home the returning Queen and the Duke.

An Admiralty spokesman said last night that the yacht's progress had been speeded up "to ensure the maximum amount of rest for all in the Royal yacht in view of the forthcoming 48 hours' ceremonies."—Reuter.

Completion Of H-Bomb Tests

Washington, May 14.
The Defence Department and the Atomic Energy Commission yesterday announced the "successful" completion of the 1954 hydrogen explosion tests in the Pacific.

The announcement came in a joint statement from Mr Lewis L. Strauss, Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission's Pacific Proving Ground, and Mr Charles E. Wilson.

The statement said: "The 1954 series of thermonuclear tests at the Atomic Energy Commission's Pacific Proving Ground has been completed."

"The tests were successful in the development of thermonuclear weapons. They were essential to our national interest and have contributed materially to the security of the United States and the free world."

"The tests being concluded within a few days and all traffic may be safely resumed within the 'warning area', which was set up for safety purposes for the time when the tests were taking place."

Official notices to airmen and mariners will be published.—Reuter.

Minister's Plea To Delegates To Disarmament Talks

London, May 13.

The world's five major atomic powers, including Russia, met tonight to discuss disarmament, including the control of the atomic bomb.

The British Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, greeted delegates from America, Russia, France and Canada with this plea:

"Unless we can devise a system of mutual, agreed, supervised, comprehensive disarmament, there is no hope for lasting peace."

The representatives of the five nations are meeting as a committee of the United Nations Disarmament Commission. They have to make their report to the Commission by July 14.

The disarmament talks opened with a first meeting in New York last month.

They were transferred to London because the United Nations organisers believed it was a better place for talks away from the glare of too much publicity.

The importance of the conference is that it is a new, all-out effort not only to work out control of atomic weapons, but to seek a reduction in conventional arms.

Mr. Jakob Malik, the Soviet Ambassador to London, represented Russia. The other chief delegates were: Britain: Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, Minister of State; United States: Mr. Patterson, a leading industrialist chosen by President Eisenhower; France: M. Jules Moch, former Defence Minister; Canada: Mr. Lester Pearson, Minister for External Affairs.

The conference has been given until July 15 to report back to the United Nations Commission.—Reuter.

British Exports Higher

London, May 13.
British exports last month rose above the January-March average despite three fewer working days than in March, the Board of Trade announced here.

Exports in April were worth £225,000,000, but re-exports dropped by almost a third to £8,000,000.

Imports rose last month. They reached a total of £284,000,000—over £10,000,000 more than the average for the year's first quarter.

Total Of 3,405 Men Still Not Released Official Says

Munsan, May 13.

The United Nations Command today asked the Communists "for an accounting" of 3,405 United Nations personnel who were in Communist hands when the armistice was signed.

The United Nations asked the Communist for the present whereabouts of the prisoners of war and that "all those still alive" be returned to the United Nations.

The request was made by Rear Admiral A. E. Jarrel, Senior Allied delegate, at a Military Armistice Commission meeting at Panmunjom today.

It was made after the Communists had asked the United Nations Command for the accounting of 98,742 North Koreans and Chinese prisoners of war alleged to be still in United Nations custody.

Admiral Jarrel told the Communists that all North Koreans and Chinese prisoners of war held by the United Nations Command had been accounted for. He reiterated that no prisoners of war remained in the custody of the United Nations Command.

In reply to the United Nations request, the Chief Communist delegate, Lieutenant General Lee Sang Cho, said that all United Nations prisoners of war who wished to be repatriated had been returned to the United Nations Command.

CHARGES REJECTED

During the meeting, General Lee referred to a report by the Polish and Czech members of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission of April 30 in which they charged the United Nations Command with violation of the armistice agreement. The report said the United Nations Command had brought reinforcements into South Korea and had restricted the work of the United Nations Supervisory Commission team in South Korea.

The report was not endorsed by the Swiss and Swedish members of the Commission. Admiral Jarrel rejected the charges. He quoted from a letter written by the Swiss and Swedish delegates which said the Polish and Czech report was "literally ridiculous" and "malicious propaganda".—Reuter.

Drinks Still Dear For Russians

London, May 13.

Drinks will remain dear in Russia because they cannot be regarded as "goods of prime necessity" the Soviet Trade Minister, Mr. Anastas Mikoyin, has told his countrymen, Moscow Radio said today.

Speaking in the Council of Nationalities yesterday, he said the Government's first concern has been to lower prices of essential goods.

Amid laughter and applause, he said the time would come "when we are richer"—for the price of drinks to come under revision.

Beer and wine would still be 50% more expensive than they were before the war and spirits more than double, he added, according to Moscow Radio.—China Mail Special.

FEARS

"Imperialists Are Trying To Frighten People"

Moscow, May 13.

The Soviet Army newspaper Red Star said today there were "not sufficient grounds" for fears that a radioactive cobalt bomb could wipe out large areas of the earth.

In an article on nuclear weapons, the official newspaper said that talk of a cobalt bomb was an attempt by "imperialists" to frighten the people with a "new weapon."

The article, signed by a Lieutenant-Colonel of Engineers, cited scientific reasons against recent reports that a cobalt super-bomb could destroy wide sections of the earth.

Red Star said that "imperialists" claim that the explosion of a cobalt bomb could render entire areas inaccessible to human beings and prolong the time (of this condition) by infecting the areas with radioactive cobalt dust.

There are not, however, sufficient grounds for such claims. It is well-known that cobalt, having a long period of semi-decay, has comparatively low radiation qualities. Wide dispersion of cobalt dust must also be considered.

"Under these conditions it is difficult to expect very intense radiation," the article said. It continued: "Aggressive forces of imperialist states, desirous of starting a new war with the use of weapons of mass destruction, are trying to take advantage of the ability of neutrals to produce directed radioactivity for intensifying the destructive effect of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

"A LOT OF NOISE" "With this aim, foreign reactionary circles have made a lot of noise about the so-called cobalt bomb. The process taking place in the cobalt bomb is described in the following way: 'As the result of a thermonuclear (H-bomb) reaction a great number of free neutrons are formed. The shell of the bomb made of cobalt absorbs these neutrons.'"

"As a result, a radioactive cobalt isotope is formed which disintegrates, emitting beta and gamma rays with a period of semi-decay of 5.3 years," the article said.

The article, one of a series in Red Star dealing with nuclear developments, was signed by Lieutenant-Colonel A. Sedov.

DEFENCE BARRIERS It discussed the general effects of radiation from atomic and hydrogen bombs and defenses against these weapons.

"If the intensity of radiation is very high and higher than the permissible level (for survival) then defence barriers of one material or another are used to lower it."

"Assuming that at a given distance from the centre of an atomic explosion the intensity of gamma radiation is 10 times that which is permissible for human beings, the defence barrier should therefore ensure a ten-fold weakening (of the radiation). Such a weakening may be obtained by a lead plate five centimetres thick."—United Press.

Kenya Police Need More Arms

Nairobi, May 13.

The Police Commissioner in Kenya, Colonel Arthur Young, said today he would visit the Colonial Office in London to press for more police supplies in Kenya, particularly better and lighter weapons and transport.

Colonel Young, who was appointed to Kenya for a year last March from his post as Commissioner of the City of London Police, is flying to London tomorrow (Friday) for ten days to take part in ceremonies welcoming home Queen Elizabeth from her Commonwealth tour.

Colonel Young said that Africans "seem to want to jump on the bandwagon" as the Mau Mau situation in Nairobi improved.

He said reports that about ten per cent of her Kikuyu, Embu and Meru tribesmen are in the Mau Mau situation in Nairobi were estimated to be strong adherents of the organisation.

Answering a question about recent Mau Mau attacks south-east of Nairobi, in the territory of the Wakamba tribe, he said: "The Mau Mau are largely free from Mau Mau."

Colonel Young said: "All is not well there. It is being watched very carefully."—Reuter.

MPs May Get Tax-Free Allowance

London, May 13.

British members of Parliament are likely to get a tax-free allowance of up to £500 a year under a Government scheme put forward in the House of Commons tonight.

The Government rejected a recommendation of an all-party Parliamentary Committee that members should have an increase in salary—from £1,000 to £1,500 a year.

But it suggested two alternatives: (1) A tax-free allowance of between £100 and £500 a year from which members could draw to reimburse themselves for expenses actually incurred.

(2) A subsistence allowance for members whose homes are outside London.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. R. A. Butler, said "one Government would have to take a final decision in the light of views expressed by members themselves and of public opinion, which was sensitive on this issue."—China Mail Special.

Paris Restaurants Expensive? Nonsense, Say Owners

Paris, May 13.

Thirteen leading Paris restaurants have formed an association to explain to the world that their prices, though high, are not exorbitant. Reports that one cannot eat in their restaurants for less than £10 a head have made them angry.

"It simply is not true," said M. Claude Terrail, of the Tour d'Argent.

French Tourist Offices abroad are to display the restaurants' menus with prices in local currencies. The aim is to show that the best Paris restaurants are usually cheaper than their foreign equivalents.

In restaurants of this class they use only the choicest materials and it takes six people to serve a dish perfectly from the kitchen. In fact, the overhead cost of serving a glass of tap water comes out at 2s 6d.

Russia Wants Trade With West Germany

Bonn, May 13.

West German and Russian delegates to the International East-West trade conference in Geneva earlier this year, have agreed to aim at the conclusion of a mutual trade agreement at the earliest possible date, authoritative West German industry sources said here today.

These sources told Reuter that the Soviet Union appeared to be much more interested in a trade agreement with West Germany than a year ago.

It had, however, been left open whether the conclusion of such an agreement depended on the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries. Neither could it be said yet whether and when negotiations would actually start.

West German-Russian trade would much depend on the conditions at which the Russians offered their products. These are expected to be mainly wood, oil, asbestos and agricultural products.

West Germany would have to pay attention to embargo regulations, forbidding the export of certain strategic goods behind the "Iron Curtain"—Reuter.

Do Women Live Longer Than Men?

London, May 13.

British women are tending to outlive their men, according to the first mortality figures published for 20 years issued in a report today.

The report, based on 1930 figures, recorded by the Registrar General, splits people into five occupational groups—professional, intermediate, skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled.

In all groups, women are living longer, whereas men live longer only in certain occupational and age groups. In 1930, the average life expectancy for men was 66 years and for women 68 years.

Self-Portrait Of The Man And Prime Minister In 1,200 "Churchillisms"

London, May 14.

A British Editor has built up a new self-portrait of Sir Winston Churchill based on his most telling speeches, maxims and pronouncements.

There are more than 1,200 quotations in this book, which ranges over most of the Prime Minister's long and eventful career, taking in some of his earliest quips as well as the more profound reflections of his old age.

The utterings of the fledgling Churchill jolt for position with the wartime leader's historic exhortations to the British people.

The book, "Sir Winston Churchill—Self-Portrait" (published by Messrs Eyre and Spottiswoode, London—15/-) was compiled by Mr Colin R. Coote, editor of the "Daily Telegraph", with the approval of the Prime Minister.

Appropriately, it quotes in the first few pages a remark which Sir Winston Churchill made to Parliament nine years ago: "I have no intention of passing my remaining years in explaining or withdrawing anything I have said in the past, still less apologising for it."

A chapter devoted to the Prime Minister "on himself" is studded with examples of acute self-analysis.

For example: "Looking back with after-knowledge and increasing years, I seem to have been too ready to undertake tasks which were hazardous or even forlorn."

He wrote this 30 years ago in his book "World Crisis", little knowing that it would prove to be prophecy as well as retrospection.

"I have a tendency—against which I should, perhaps, be on my guard—to swim against the stream," he admitted when accepting the leadership of the Conservative Party in 1940.

On his driving nature, he told Parliament in the Second World War: "I am certainly not one of those who need to be pushed. In fact if anything, I am the prod."

But when, at luncheon one day, he asked his doctor, Lord Moran, whether he could have a canteen, and Lord Moran enquired whether he "wanted it or needed it," the Prime Minister could not resist this quip: "I neither want it nor need it. But I should think it pretty hazardous to interfere with the ineradicable habit of a lifetime."

SIR GALAHAD But when, at luncheon one day, he asked his doctor, Lord Moran, whether he could have a canteen, and Lord Moran enquired whether he "wanted it or needed it," the Prime Minister could not resist this quip: "I neither want it nor need it. But I should think it pretty hazardous to interfere with the ineradicable habit of a lifetime."

When, two years ago, an American feminist asked him what the role of women should be in the future, he beamingly replied: "The same, I trust, as it has been since the days of Adam and Eve!"

"Where does the family start? It starts with a young man falling in love with a girl—no superior alternative has yet been found," he told the House of Commons some time ago.

His own family background finds a reflection in this comment to Parliament after the birth of Queen Elizabeth's son and heir, Prince Charles: "There is no doubt that it is around the family and the home that all the greatest virtues—the most dominating virtues of human societies—are created, strengthened and maintained."

Science has taken some hard knocks from the Prime Minister, on the score that man's ingenuity is largely prosthetic. "Science has insulated the head in the filth of slaughterous inventions," he wrote.

much towards himself as towards the one fertile strategic idea which emerged from the first World War. The second was prompted by the knowledge that Mr Eden was the only prominent member of the Chamberlain Government who shared his struggle for his conception of the German danger."—China Mail Special.

Grants To Help British Sixth Formers

London.

To encourage senior pupils to go on to a university, Miss Hornbrough, Minister of Education, has decided to allot £20 a year to assist each sixth form member of grant-aided grammar schools.

Her decision will, it is hoped, offset the cost of the Bursary scheme, which increases in teachers' salaries. It means, at least for the time being, that parents' and local education authorities' fees will not be raised.

The advanced work grant, payable from April 1, will take effect by the end of May if amending regulations at present before Parliament are unopposed. The existing capitation grant of £28 5s for boys and girls over 11 will remain at the present level.

To qualify for the new grant this year a sixth form grammar school pupil must be either 17 or over on July 1, or must intend taking two or more A-levels in the General Certificate of Education at advanced level next year.

OTHER ASSISTANCE Where the number of such pupils does not produce sufficient income to enable a school to meet the increases in teachers' salaries, the Ministry of Education is understood to be prepared to "consider" grant assistance.

Miss Hornbrough's decision was reached after negotiations with the Association of Governing Bodies of Public Schools, the Girls' Public Day School Trust, the Headmasters' Conference and the Association of Public Schools. Her proposals are regarded as an "investment" in the more ambitious pupil.

A spokesman of the Girls' Public Day School Trust said: "The present 'we are not pulling up our own feet' for seniors who are in the grant-aided section of our schools. We might be forced to do so in about a year."

"In the junior sections fees are being raised by £1 per term, starting this term, to meet the new Bursary increases."

Under the new Bursary scheme, grants will be paid to schools between £400 and £750 a year, according to the size of the school. Grants of £400-£750 will be paid to schools with 20-40 pupils; £750-£1,000 to schools with 41-60 pupils; and £1,000-£1,500 to schools with 61-100 pupils.

The grant will be paid in three instalments: £400 in January, £400 in May, and £400 in September. The total grant for a school will be £1,200 a year.

The grant will be paid to schools which are grant-aided, and which are not receiving a grant from the Local Education Authority. The grant will be paid to schools which are grant-aided, and which are not receiving a grant from the Local Education Authority.

Scots Commit Less Crime

Edinburgh, May 13.

Scots committed more legal offences but less crime last year than in 1952, according to a report published here.

Known offenders, mainly disturbances of the peace, drunkenness and road traffic offences, rose by over five per cent to 112,274, but crimes fell by over six per cent to 76,860. Police investigated 13 cases of murder during the year.—China Mail Special.

Nationalists May Return Jap Destroyers

Tokyo, May 13.

The newspaper Mainichi reported today that Nationalist China had offered to return to Japan "several" destroyers which it had taken from this country after World War II.

In return, it said, President Chiang Kai-shek appeared to want Japan to supply arms and ammunition to Formosa, and repair and construct small-type warships for the Navy.

The Chinese Embassy here said that it "knew" nothing about the report officially. The spokesman refused to comment further.

Nine of Japan's best World War II destroyers, ranging in size from 1,020 tons to 2,400 tons and in speed from 20 to 35 knots were taken over by China from Japan's imperial navy in 1947.

But it was even decided they were to be given to China, however, the Allies had dismantled all guns and removed torpedo tubes and other fighting gear.

The Mainichi said that the offer was made informally some time ago by a representative of President Chiang Kai-shek.

But Japan's leaders were not enthusiastic because of the cost involved in installing arms and equipment on the warships, and China never did outfit them, the Mainichi said.

It believed, however, that the United States supported the move as another step in the strengthening of Free Asia against Communism.—United Press.

Paris, May 14. The Indian Foreign Secretary, Mr R. K. Nehru, arrived here yesterday and will open talks today on the future of the four French settlements on the Indian sub-continent.

France is reported to be prepared to surrender the territories—Pondicherry, Mahe, Karikal and Yanam—if they vote by referendum to join the Indian Republic.

India rejects the idea of a plebiscite and maintains that France should hand over immediately the administration of the settlements, leaving legal details to be settled later.

I READ that Mr. Jimmy Durante's famous nose was hurt the other day, when an assassin, claiming the piano-lid down, and the nose did not get out of the way quickly enough. Singers with long noses, usually stand fairly far away from the piano. The "harp" is a dangerous thing. There was a famous scene last year when a harpist got her nose jammed between two of the wires. The fire-brigade was, of course, summoned. These little incidents made havoc of the harp, and as the nose was bleeding by that

YOUR BIRTHDAY... By STELLA

FRIDAY, MAY 14

BORN today you are one of those who seem to be at home with all kinds of people. Although you have strong likes and dislikes, you are tactful enough to hide them. The fact that, actually, you are guided by them in whatever you do, you have the ability to make money and to win at any game. You will probably turn out successfully, as far as material gains are concerned.

Naturally, you should select one of the professions or the arts as a life career, for you could not bear to work for someone else in a routine, monotonous job. It must have excitement and variety to offer you your keenest challenge.

SATURDAY, MAY 15

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—If you have to work all week, then now is the time when you may need to finish those chores at home.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)—It would be good for you to visit in the country for these two days if you can manage it.

CANCER (June 21-July 23)—The stars are definitely in your favour today, so plan to do something you want to do. Have a good time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23)—Make your weekend plans carefully. You can enjoy yourself if you have everything carefully arranged.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23)—You may have to do some necessary work around the house. Get started early so you can relax in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)—Make it a point to get out of town into the country to visit relatives. Really rest and relax tensions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 23)—This is one of those days when by devoting yourself to a pleasure you can restore flagging energies.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 23)—This is one of your best days this month, so make the most of it. Do something vitally important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Make the hours count for something. It may be a day to remember with pleasure for the rest of your life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—You may find it necessary to devote most of the day to the house, but enjoy the evening in quiet recreation.

Defensive Ruff Can Backfire at You

By OSWALD JACOBY

WHEN you are afraid of a defensive ruff you usually try to get the trumps out as quickly as possible. In adopting such a plan, you ordinarily avoid taking a trump finesse.

In today's hand, the declarer adopted this procedure with unfortunate results. There wasn't any safety in refusing the trump finesse.

West opened the king of hearts and East followed suit with the nine. South had been thinking of refusing the first heart trick, but the appearance of the nine of hearts changed his mind for him. He was afraid that the second round would be ruffed, and then the fat would be in the fire.

After winning the first trick with the ace of hearts, South decided that there was grave danger that East would overruff dummy on a third round of hearts. Seeking safety, South decided against a trump finesse but merely led a low trump to dummy's ace and then returned a trump from dummy.

East very properly hopped up with the king of diamonds and South's sharp point that she had only to dip it into the air to use it as a pen. Carlyle was always chaffing her about it. "Hello, George," he would say. "Black nose again. Run into another lamp-post?" "I've been writing," she would reply, coldly.

Evans the Hearse

THE new about the status of Evans the Hearse has broken out again. Apparently he again accepted a pen from a well-known market-gardener, thus making himself a professional. Nasal pen-pushers are allowed the expenses, but they are expected to supply their own equipment: nostril-shields for tucks ground, a gaudy little cap, and knee-pads, as, of course, a pen-pusher is on all fours during a contest. Amateur pen-pushers came out of the dressing-rooms by the main door. Professionals have to use a side door. Evans said yesterday: "The pen was a present from an old friend. Burch Y. owl Hawthell, or words to that effect."

South's attempted safety play brought about the very misfortune that he was trying to prevent. The correct line of play is to finesse the queen of diamonds at the second trick. This finesse loses to East's king, and East can return a heart.

When West leads a third round of hearts, however, dummy can ruff with the ace of trumps. No overruff is possible, of course, and South can continue to draw trumps and take his tricks in perfect safety.

Q—The bidding has been:

North East South West
1 Heart 2 Diamonds Pass
3 Clubs Pass ?

You, South, hold: Spades A-6-7, Hearts K-J-2, Diamonds K-Q-J-9-8, Clubs 3-2. What do you do?

A—Did three spades. You intend to raise hearts at your next opportunity, and it will then be clear that this bid of three spades is a mild slam try, showing the ace. This information may be all that your partner needs to bid a slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered.

You, South, hold: Spades 8-6, Hearts 9-2, Diamonds K-Q-J-9-8, Clubs A-J-3-2. What do you do?

WOMANSENSE

Fashions For Junior Miss

By Anne Scott-James

I'VE been talking to someone with pretty strong views on clothes for daughters. And Janey Ironside is qualified to have strong views. She is herself a professional designer and dressmaker, is married to stage designer, and painter Christopher Ironside, and is the mother of a pretty 10-year-old daughter, Virginia.

Mrs Ironside has been shopping for her daughter's summer clothes. RESULT: She's making nearly all of them herself. "The clothes they make for children are simply antediluvian," she says. "The designs seem to have stuck fast 20, 30, even 50 years ago—at any period except our own."

UP-TO-DATE
"I don't want to see my child in velvet dresses with puff sleeves and lace collars (Victorian look)... in deep pudding-basin hats (twentieth-century look)... or in coats with military padded shoulders (pre-war look)."

"Why can't children's clothes be contemporary? I don't mean grown-up, sophisticated clothes. But I do mean that they should bear a close relation to what their mothers are wearing."

Having endured the sight all winter of my own daughter in a poke bonnet, if you please, which is about all you can get to go with toddlers' winter coats, I long for some new thinking in little girls' clothes. (Little boys come off much better. It's a man's country!)

LIKE MOTHER'S

"Tell me the sort of clothes you like for your daughter," I said. "And let's have comments on whether you can get them or not."

I LIKE (she said) coats with raglan sleeves like my own. (Hard to find and mostly in the expensive ranges). Bright, plain jerseys and cardigans (not of flannel), but also newer-looking flannel-knit sweaters like mine (they just aren't made, I have to knit them).

I LIKE cotton dresses which look contemporary. I like them sleeveless—most children have such pretty shoulders—with the sort of necklines I wear myself. (Very scarce, I make them all at home.)

I LIKE skirts pleated, gathered, or flared on to waistbands—my daughter hates those bodice tops. Skirts must have pockets, be in bright colours and good prints or plaids. (Possible to find but easier to make, because children's fabrics and paper patterns are so much better designed than ready-made garments.)

I LIKE, for shoes, brown leather, coloured sandals, coloured Greek house shoes.

(All have to be hunted for, and coloured shoes stop after the tiny sizes.)

WELL-FITTED

Very well-made fitted coats—no piping or trimming. (These are always frightfully expensive: most cheap coats are plastered with trimming. This year I'm getting Virginia a duffel coat instead of a tailored summer coat as an economy.)

I LIKE mesh cotton shirts and lisle T-shirts (plenty of these). Plain, man's-style dress-

Teaching daughter homemaking

Why Not Start Now?

HAVE you noticed any recent statistics on the age at which most girls get married? If not, this may be a shock to you, especially if you have any little girls around the house, but figures prove that more of today's brides marry at 18 than at any other age. It does seem early, doesn't it?

If you thought you had years ahead to teach your own daughter some of the facts of happy homemaking, it may be later than you think. So maybe you'd better start the lessons now. If your daughter is old enough to ask you what's in the mixing bowl, she's ready for her first simple lesson in the art and science of cooking, even if you still have to take her back and forth to school.

NEVER TOO EARLY

And if you find your little girl looking into the mirror with a frown on her face, it's time to point out some of the basic rules of good grooming. Only the child development experts have the opportunity to learn what parents rarely do—that a youngster is ready to be taught things quite a while before the average parent gets around to even thinking about teaching them.

A mother should let the first lesson in homemaking concern cleanliness. Maybe a girl is too young to appreciate the relation between cleanliness and good health. But as she helps mother set the table, she can appreciate crisp, clean table linen and sparkling silver and glass, mainly because they look so nice and pretty.

GOOD EXAMPLE

She sees with pleasure that mother is wearing a colourful, dainty apron while she's cooking dinner and she sees it go into the machine when soiled, then worn again, all fresh and clean. She'll notice that mother never touches food or utensils without first washing her hands and also that a lot of nice hot suds take care of cleaning utensils and dishes. And because every child is a born copy cat, she'll grow up doing those same things because her favourite example does them, too.

Maybe it will serve to put a little more purpose in our house-keeping, if we realise that everything we do is setting a standard for our daughters to emulate, and that the way we run our household is going to have an incalculable effect on our daughter's success or lack of it in her own marriage.

A GOOD RECOVERY AFTER ILLNESS is as important as curing the illness itself. For, unless recovery is complete, invalids may soon pick up new germs and infections. At such a time, good food and rest is not really enough. Invalids badly need something more—daily Ribena. For Ribena—the natural way to take Vitamin C—is a great help in convalescence. It restores, it strengthens. It fights infection. In fact, Ribena does so much good in so many ways that it is unique. As all the medical evidence shows.

WHAT YOUR DOCTOR KNOWS. Ribena, made only from fresh ripe blackcurrants and pure cane sugar, is a rich source of natural Vitamin C and other factors essential to good health. It is delicious and extremely kind to the tenderest digestion. Ribena is used by many famous hospitals and recommended by eminent doctors. Its value has been proved in searching clinical tests. All good reasons why you should give Ribena to invalids.

Rupert and The Lost Cuckoo—20

As soon as he has spoken Mr. Rupert begins to walk away, but Rupert is not satisfied. "I know where my cuckoo is, won't you let me see it?" he pleads. "Has it gone for ever? Surely you don't want it for the Ark, do you?" Mr. Rupert turns and looks at him: "more kindly, dear me," he says. "I invited your cuckoo to come here for the day, but I didn't invite you. That's why my animals wanted to stop you. Come, I'll tell you all about it."

Dutch To Build Ships For Russia

London.

Commander A. H. P. Noble, Parliamentary and Financial Secretary to the Admiralty, stated in the Commons that he was aware that the Netherlands had undertaken to authorise the construction of certain cargo ships for the U.S.S.R.

Any request by British yards to build ships for Russia would be given every consideration, he said in reply to a question by Mr. J. H. Roy (Lab., Leith), but as far as he was aware no requests to build similar ships had been received.

Mr. Shinwell (Lab., Easington) asked the Minister to make it quite clear that if it was open to the Dutch Government to build ships for the Russians there was no reason why British shipbuilders should be precluded.

UNDER DISCUSSION

Commander Noble said he entirely agreed. These matters were at the moment under discussion between the Western Powers.

Mr. J. A. Langford-Holt (C. Shrewsbury) said that businessmen returning from Russia had been told that no licences would be granted for ships over 1,000 tons and that these orders were fulfilled by shipbuilders on the Continent.

The Minister said he was not aware of that information, but pointed out that a large contract for trawlers, worth about £6m., had been contracted for by U.K. firms.

The tonnage of merchant ships licensed in British shipyards in the first quarter of 1954, after allowing for the cancellation of licences issued in earlier years, was 5,878 gross tons. Commander Noble stated. In 1953 the figure was 119,815 gross tons.

In the first quarter of this year cancellations of merchant ships licensed in previous years to be built on the North-East Coast exceeded the licences issued by 1,910 gross tons. In the first quarter of 1953 licences issued amounted to 40,470 gross tons and there were no cancellations.

US To Make Loans To India?

Washington, May 13. The United States Ambassador to India, Mr. George Allen, plans to leave Washington on Saturday to return to his New Delhi post amid suggestions in Congress that the proposed economic aid to India could take the form of a loan-grant combination.

The Ambassador appeared yesterday before the Foreign Affairs Committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives studying the aid programme to defend it against threatened heavy cuts and to calm Congressional impetuosity fuelled by the foreign policy attitudes of the Prime Minister, Mr. Nehru. President Eisenhower's administration, in its new global military and economic aid bill, totalling $8,497,700,000, was seeking $85,000,000 for direct economic help to India and another $9,500,000 to provide technical assistance.

Senator Alexander Wiley (Republican, Wisconsin), the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which heard the Ambassador yesterday, told Reuters today: "I think part of the proposed economic aid to India might usefully be given in the form of loans but the Committee has not yet decided. The time has come for the United States to put economic aid on a loan basis in cases where the money is for prospects which produce an income return on the investment." The Senator said he understood that "a number of Indians" were not opposed to that suggestion. He added that he favoured providing funds for technical assistance on a grant basis. Senator Wiley's views had been subject of some other discussion of Congress—Reuters.

JOHN CLARKE'S CASEBOOK

THE MAINSTAY

THEY were a family of three—mother, father, and a son named Leonard. There was nothing spectacular or special about them. They lived their lives quietly, had much the same interests and hopes and fears as thousands of others in the part of South London where their home was.

Leonard was such a home-bound boy, behaved as might be expected in an exemplary fashion. In the 12 years since he left school he has worked for only one firm, making slow but steady progress, that was only interrupted by his military service.

The Army thought well of Leonard, confirming the good impression he had made on his employers, who were glad to take him back when he put off his battleship.

BUCKLING TO

THEN, a little while ago, the home that Leonard had always, with some reason, regarded as unimpeachable broke up, almost overnight. Leonard's father walked out on his family. Since he omitted to leave a forwarding address, Leonard, now 28, is in a quandary about where to go. Leonard, now 28, is in a quandary about where to go. Leonard, now 28, is in a quandary about where to go.

South Koreans Say Conference Will Break Down

Geneva, May 13. South Korean sources predicted tonight that the conference here on a Korean settlement would "break down next week" on the issue of United Nations supervision of elections.

This came at the end of a day in which differences appeared to have developed on the United Nations side on the issue of forcing a showdown which might mean an early end to the 19-nation talks.

26 INJURED IN SINGAPORE DEMONSTRATION

Singapore, May 14. Twenty-six people were injured yesterday in clashes between police here and students demonstrating against the national service registration. A police sergeant is in hospital with a suspected fractured skull and six more policemen suffered slight stab wounds.

About 20 school-children, some of them girls, were hurt.

Forty-four boys and one girl were arrested by the girl was released after being taken to the Central Police Station. The boys were detained.

A police spokesman said last night: "In our opinion, this afternoon's incidents were Communist-inspired. It is well known that the Communists have failed in their campaign against the national registration and they have now attempted to influence the small minority of misguided school-children who have refused to register."

Two groups of the reserve unit were called out to deal with the situation and another was held in reserve.

All troops in the colony were recalled to their barracks last night by loudspeaker jeeps which sped through the city and notices were flashed on cinema screens. All local leave was cancelled.

The trouble began when about 900 school-children from two Chinese schools assembled in one of the main thoroughfares near Government House.

IGNORED WARNING

Both schools recently sent petitions to the Government asking for exemption from national service. On Wednesday, the Officer Administering the Government Mr. W. A. C. Goode agreed to meet a delegation of eight.

The assembled students were warned by the police to disperse but they refused to do so and resisted the police. In this case the police used no force, a spokesman said.

After a number of arrests had been made—all children over 15—the students moved away but re-assembled in the grounds of a Scottish Methodist Church.

They first refused to leave and at this stage stones were thrown and a police sergeant was badly hurt. The police used batons to disperse the students.

The use of force by the police is criticized this morning by the two English language daily papers and by some community leaders.

The Chinese-owned Singapore Standard calls for an immediate and comprehensive inquiry into the incidents.

It believes that the demonstration of strength by the police is not likely to inculcate a sincere appreciation of the youth of Singapore.

A LITTLE HARSHLY

The influential Straits Times thinks that perhaps the police dealt a little harshly with the students and say that guns (even if kept slung over the shoulder), riot shields and baton and tear-gas equipment with which to confront kids and

CHANGE OF PLEA: CROWN SEEKING COURT RULING

The question of whether an accused who has pleaded guilty in normal circumstances to a charge before a Magistrate should be allowed to withdraw that plea subsequently will be argued before the Full Court on Friday, May 28 at 10 a.m.

This morning the Crown sought the leave of the Full Court, comprising the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice T. J. Gould and the Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice C. W. Reece, to apply for an order prohibiting the Hongkong Magistrate, Mr. Poon Yan-hoi, from dealing with a defendant, Yau Ngau, otherwise than by way of sentence, on the grounds that Yau was convicted of the offence with which he was charged.

You was one of ten men who originally went before the Magistrate, Mr. Hin-shing Lo, on a charge of conspiracy. It was alleged that in March they conspired to defraud the Government by devices whereby food-stuffs delivered by the Asia Co. to Queen Mary Hospital should be invoiced to and paid for by the Government in excess of their true weight and value. Yau was the only defendant who pleaded guilty on March 18; the others denied the charge. His case was adjourned by Mr. Lo to be further dealt with by Mr. Poon. On April 27 he appeared before Mr. Poon and through his solicitor, Mr. A. Y. Hon, applied for and was granted permission to reverse his plea to one of Not Guilty.

The Crown, represented by Crown Counsel, Mr. Simon Li, claimed that Mr. Poon gave no reasons for his decision.

DESIRE RULING

Mr. Li said that the object of his application was to seek a ruling of the Full Court on that point. He submitted that in normal circumstances once an accused had pleaded guilty and his plea recorded, it constituted a conviction and he should not be allowed to reverse that plea, unless there were obvious reasons showing he did not understand the charge or that the words of his plea constituted a defence.

Mr. Li pointed out that Yau pleaded guilty before one Magistrate and then asked another Magistrate for permission to reverse his plea. The second Magistrate could not be expected to know what had happened before.

The Full Court granted him leave and fixed the date for hearing.

US Cruiser Arrives On A Visit

Vice-Admiral A.M. Pride, USN, Commander of the United States Seventh Fleet, arrived here this morning aboard his flagship, the heavy cruiser Rochester, on a recreational visit to Hongkong.

Admiral Pride's last visit here was in December last year soon after he assumed command of the Seventh Fleet. He is noted as commander of the aircraft carrier Belleau Wood which took part in the occupation of and raids on Pacific islands during the last war. The Belleau Wood, now the Bolo Belleau on loan to the French Navy, is due to arrive here shortly for engine repairs.

The Rochester, commanded by Captain J. Quinn, is of 13,000 displacement tons. She is one of the three ships of the Oregon City Class. Among her main armaments are nine eight-inch guns. She has a complement of 1,700 officers and men.

Also arrived today were the USS Orea (station ship) and the seaplane tender, USS Kenneth Whiting. Leaving port were four US destroyers, the Shield, Erben, Twining and Colahan.

The 14,000-ton Australian aircraft carrier, HMAS Sydney, also left port today.

February Surplus

The financial statement for February published in the Government Gazette this morning showed a surplus of $5,892,627.51. The Revenue for the month was $27,187,755.63 and the expenditure was $21,295,128.12. The General Revenue Balance as at February 28, was $336,172,296.89.

REFUSES LEAVE TO APPEAL

A coolie, Liu Tai-chung, who was sentenced to six months for soliciting for immoral purposes and another three months for resisting arrest by Mr. W. T. Charles, Kowloon Magistrate, was refused leave to appeal by Mr. Justice J. R. Gregg, Puisne Judge in the Supreme Court this morning.

Liu, who was said to have accepted Military Policemen as a paddy field in Shuang Shui on March 12, appealed against his conviction on the grounds that he was falsely accused and wrongly convicted and that the conviction was against weight of evidence.

Judges held that he could and no reliable evidence on record to support his claim. There was clear evidence that the appellant assisted others in bargaining with the soldiers.

Mr. D. F. O. Mayne, Crown Counsel, appeared for the Crown.

Latest Gazetted Appointments

His Excellency the Governor, on instructions from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, has appointed Mr. A. E. Perry to be Controller of Stores, it was announced in the Government Gazette today.

Other appointments gazetted were: Dr. Kwan Shu-shuk, Certified Radiologist, to be a Radiologist on probation; Mr. G. Garner to act as Officer in Charge, Stanley Training Centre, Prisons Department; Mr. H. R. Tappenden to act as Superintendent of Prisons; Mr. A. Hooton, QC, to act as Attorney-General; Mr. M. Hoeman to act as Solicitor-General.

H. E. the Governor has approved the relinquishment of his appointment as an Assistant Superintendent of Police of the Hongkong Special Constabulary of Mr. H. F. Sullivan.

Kidnapper's Execution Postponed

San Rafael, Calif., May 13.

Superior Judge Thomas Keating today ordered a stay of execution for convict-author Caryl Chessman, who was scheduled to die tomorrow in the lethal gas chamber at San Quentin.

The judge granted a petition by Chessman's attorney, Berwyn Rice, and a few hours later reaffirmed his decision by rejecting an Attorney-General's motion to reserve himself.

The 32-year-old Chessman, author of a sensational autobiography written in his Death Row cell, was sentenced to die under the State's "Little Lindbergh Law" for kidnapping with bodily harm.

Rice, who had fought almost without sleep since Chessman retained him last week, won the stay on the grounds that a "fraudulent" into certifying a false transcript of the trial. Five hours later, the Assistant Attorney-General Clarence Linn appeared before Judge Keating with a motion to withdraw the stay of execution.

Linn argued that the grounds offered by Rice had "already been raised in the Supreme Court" which earlier had turned down Chessman's appeal. After less than an hour of deliberation Judge Keating announced he was denying the State's motion and leaving Chessman with his new lease on life.

"I find there is some new material" in Rice's petition, he said. He set a hearing for Monday on his order for the State to show cause why a writ of habeas corpus should not be issued.

The delay means Chessman will have at least another 60 days of life. If the writ is denied, the case will have to be referred back to the Trial Court for a new execution date.
